
PREMIER EMERGENCY RESPONSE PROGRAM

September 2020

Information collected and displayed in Continuity Management Program documents is deemed confidential and proprietary to Premier Inc. (Premier). It is not to be disclosed to any third party without the express written consent of a member of the Continuity Management Team.

Purpose and Scope

The Premier Emergency Response Program has been developed for all Premier staff (Premier employees, contractors, consultants, and on-site vendors) to provide guidance for actions to be taken in response to situations that impact or have the potential to impact normal business operations and/or the safety of staff. Emergency response plans and ongoing staff awareness and safety trainings are in place to minimize staff impact, mitigate business impact and reduce the time required to return to business as usual. Given the vast number of potential scenarios causing emergency situations, the response to many will be based on best judgement at the time; however, the goal is to minimize staff and business impact through planning, awareness and training should the unexpected occur.

Roles and Responsibilities

CORPORATE EMERGENCY RESPONSE TEAM

Premier has established a Corporate Emergency Response Team (CERT) with responsibility to coordinate and manage the overall Premier response to emergency situations, support local emergency response and work with the Premier Continuity Management Team (CMT) to help ensure a return to business as usual as soon as possible. Other responsibilities of the CERT include, but are not limited to:

- Determine and coordinate the execution of Premier's overall emergency response.
- Coordinate actions as needed to minimize harm to any impacted staff and mitigate business disruption.
- Manage communications to staff, members and customers, and the media to ensure alignment and protect the company's reputation and brand.

The CERT may be activated as a result of an emergency situation in one location or due to a situation expected to result in a company-wide emergency. Examples of situations that may cause team activation include, but are not limited to, forecasting of disruptive weather events, local life safety emergencies, building damage or disruption, public health concerns, major technology and communications issues, or any significant situation impacting or expected to impact staff at a major member hospital or customer or supplier location.

LOCAL EMERGENCY RESPONSE TEAMS

Premier has established a Local Emergency Response Team (LERT) at each office location. The responsibilities of the LERT are to provide assistance and support for staff and visitors during the response to immediate life safety situations and to provide local expertise and support to the Corporate Emergency Response Team (CERT) during response and recovery activities. Other responsibilities of the LERT include, but are not limited to:

- Serve as point of contact for police, fire or other emergency first responders.
- Serve as primary point of contact for local building property management.
- Provide timely communications to the CERT throughout the duration of the situation.

- Organize and distribute information to all staff relevant for use in an emergency situation and ensure communications and activation protocols are understood and followed.

A Leader (and 1-2 Alternate Leaders) has been designated at each location (and for each floor in multi-floor locations) with responsibility to provide leadership and coordination for response activities. The leaders also serve as the primary points of contact for the CERT during active emergency situations.

Examples of situations that may cause team activation include, but are not limited to, disruptive weather, building damage or disruption, workplace violence or active shooter, suspicious package, bomb threat, or staff injury. The CERT may also initiate action that requires one or more of the local teams to act.

STAFF

It is the responsibility of each Premier staff member to be aware of the Premier Emergency Response Program, to understand their individual role and responsibilities, and to observe documented response protocols during any emergency situation. During an emergency situation, any directions or requests from Local Emergency Response Team (LERT) members or the local authorities responding to the event should be regarded as having originated from Premier executive management and should be followed as quickly as possible.

If at any time any staff member believes themselves or a co-worker to be in immediate danger (fire, active shooter, bomb threat, robbery, etc.), they have the authority and responsibility to call the local authorities at 911. In Premier facilities, all staff, in case of a fire, smoke or explosion, are authorized to activate the fire alarm system by pulling the emergency pull station near your location. Staff in non-Premier buildings should follow guidelines provided by building management.

Communications

During immediate emergency situations or when planning for potential impacts, mass communications sent to large groups of employees are usually required. In these situations, Premier may send text and email messages to your mobile device(s). This process is critical to the safety and security of the workforce. All staff must ensure their mobile device number is accurate in their personnel profile within Workday, and classified as a mobile device.

Awareness and Training

An awareness and training program is in place to ensure that the various elements and associated processes and procedures of the Emergency Response Program are understood by all employees. The primary objective of the training program is to ensure that all staff are aware of their specific roles and responsibilities during a response to an emergency situation and recovery activities.

All Premier staff are expected to participate in assigned learning awareness sessions and/or training exercises. Examples include, but are not limited to, webinars, evacuation or shelter-in-place drills, and periodic learning sessions.
